

Because you don't have time to read all the newspapers and see every TV newscast, below is a list of some Arizona attorneys, Bar programs and staff members who received recent media attention.

| Name | Firm | Subject | Media Outlet |
|-------------------------------------|--------------------------------|---|--|
| Patricia Lee Refo Jeffrey Willis | Snell & Wilmer Streich Lang | Trial of OK Corral Gunfight | The Arizona Republic Arizona Business Gazette Arizona Journal |
| Mike Black | Attorney at Law | Explained legal issues/strategies in sleepwalking murder case | KNXV-TV, KTAR-AM |
| A. Mel McDonald | Jones Skelton Hochuli | Profile—Where Are They Now? | The Arizona Republic |
| Howard Sukenic | Bonn Luscher Padden & Wilkins | Interviewed about sleepwalking murder case legal issues | KAET—"Horizon" Program |
| Todd Julian | Burch & Cracchiolo | Profile of the Week | Arizona Business Gazette |
| Jane Reddin | Lewis & Roca | Explained sexual harassment issues | KNXV-TV |
| Stuart Forsyth | State Bar of Arizona | Public trust and confidence in the legal system | KNXV-TV |
| Andy Sherwood | Sherwood Klein Dudley & Abram | Professionalism Course | Arizona Business Journal |

If you have news that deserves media attention, contact the Bar's Director of Communications, Matt Silverman, at (602) 340-7226, or e-mail matthew.silverman@staff.azbar.org.

University Honors College Forms Mentor Board

TEMPE—The University Honors College at Arizona State University seeks the support of practicing attorneys to serve as mentors for students in the College who intend careers in the law or that involve legal education. Although graduates of the University Honors College have a superb record for being admitted to law school, with 99 percent of those who have applied having been admitted and completing their legal education, the College's administration wants to help them prepare as undergraduates for what they can expect in law school and in using their legal training after receiving their degree. To this end, we seek members of the Arizona legal community to volunteer their time and talent to provide mentorship for those students who are contemplating legal careers.

We seek practitioners in all fields of law and from both private and public practice. We would like our students to be able to develop a richer sense of the demands of a legal career, the variety of directions a legal career can take, and the relative advantages and disadvantages of different specialties as well as public and private practice.

The amount of time one would have to devote to this activity would depend upon the individual volunteer. We would work to establish good fits between students and attorneys and would not in a given year assign more students to a volunteer than she or he was willing to accept.

Those who are interested in serving as mentors to these extremely bright, dedicated, public-spirited students should contact Associate Dean Janet M. Burke at either (480) 965-2354 or through her secretary, Jaine Howard, at Senese@asu.edu.

We believe that this partnership between the Arizona legal community and Honors College can benefit the legal profession, the nation and state, and, of course, our students. Those who have served as mentors to students in the Honors College have invariably agreed that it was a rewarding experience.